

Trustees wanted for Cosy Homes Charitable Trust in Otago

Are you someone who cares about housing and the wellbeing of our community?

Cosy Homes Charitable Trust is looking to recruit new Trustees following the resignation of two long standing members who have been involved since before the Trust was established in 2015. Cosy Homes is an independent, non-profit charitable Trust working to improve the health, warmth and energy efficiency of housing stock in Otago. As a key agency for healthy homes work in the region, Cosy Homes undertakes strategic coordination, advocacy and education for policy makers, multiple agencies and the public. Increasingly, Cosy Homes is helping to coordinate solutions to broader housing issues in Otago with a key objective being to improve health outcomes across the population.

The Trust is now well established and has one full time employee. New funding partners have recently come on board and Trustees spent time this year updating the strategic plan. We now need new Trustees to take the vision that “Everyone lives in a warm and healthy home” to the next level.

We are looking for people with knowledge of some of the many facets of healthy housing, and who are willing to contribute expertise, energy and time to undertake the necessary work as volunteer Trustees. In particular we would welcome enquiries from those in the community and social sector and from those with skills running Not for Profit organisations.

Please feel free to contact the Chair Dr Marion Poore for further discussion or submit your CV and cover letter to marionrpoore@gmail.com by 4 February 2020.
